Vote for Bonds Automation and Paper Blizzard

I am late with this — a reminder that you owe it to your city and county's economic progress to vote for the Act 49 bond issue for Standard Generator's new building, before the polls close at 6:30 tonight.

We have supported all previous Act 49 industrial measures in Hempstead and intended to make an advance endorsement of this one, but in our preoccupation with the Star's technical problems in offset we never got around to it. Yet I can't imagine any forward-looking citizen voting against today's proposition.

I had an amusing story on tap about how man dreams up automatic machines and then finds they are burying him under a blizzard of paper work — but yesterday's Wall Street Journal beat me to it.

The WSJ story, headlined "Automation Backlash," reported that one morning Ford Motor Co.'s office staff found all the knobs stolen from the Zerex copying machines. The "thieves" were Ford executives.

The executives discovered their clerks were turning out so much paper the top brass had to study that their was no time for the business of manufacturing automobiles.

My story was about Eastman Kodak Co.'s field sales staff a couple of years ago. The Eastman Co. decided its salesmen were spending so much time writing out daily reports to the home office that their sales work was suffering. So a top man in the home office ordered the salesmen to buy tape recorders, recite their daily activities into the recorder, and mail the tape.

Result? The home office manager who dreamed up this scheme suddenly discovered his days were taken up by listening to tapes — and he had no time to manage his salesmen.

Remedy? Throw away the tape-recorders. So ordered... and so done.

Education, Health Bill to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson sends a health-education message to Congress today. It may stir new controversy over milk for school children and mark the beginnings of a hospitalization program geared to increasing needs and Medicare for the elderly.

Johnson had given no indication a fortnight ago that he would give way to congressional critics on the question of subsidized school lunches — including milk — for all pupils.

He has advocated subsidies only for the needy, but not those who can buy their milk and food themselves. And he has sought a 79 per cent slash in the milk subsidy in the next fiscal year.

Protests have come from parents, school officials, welfare agencies and congressmen.

The health part of the double-barreled message was expected to deal with the problem of adequate facilities and enough people for carrying out programs already under way and for the medicare plan that goes into action.

Millions of persons over 65 will be eligible for hospital and medical care — if they can get it in already crowded facilities. So Johnson was expected to outline some steps for meeting this situation.

In the education field he has come up with a new idea — breakfast for children who otherwise would start the school day with empty stomachs.

This would be part of a Child Nutrition Act of 1966 he outlined in broad strokes to the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City Feb. 16. Part of this proposed act is the pay-if-you-can basis for the lunch program so there will be no subsidy for youngsters from families who can afford to buy the lunches.

Johnson was expected to get into the milk situation. His budget for the 1967 fiscal year starting July 1 called for spending $21 million for milk subsidies, compared with $100 million this year. Millions of children have been receiving milk at cut rates for nearly a dozen years, with the government paying an average of 3.9 cents on every half pint.

Hundreds of Cong Troops Killed by GIs

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Hundreds of Communists were reported killed today by ground and air attack as U.S. Marines and government troops battled the Viet Cong's 1st Regiment in three actions 50 miles south of the North Vietnamese frontier.

The Leathernecks claimed 115 enemy dead, 6 captured and nearly 10 weapons, including mortars, heavy machine guns and automatics, seized in fighting that began Monday with the arrival by helicopter of 800 Marines in the river and canal country 12 miles southeast of Hue.

The Americans linked up with Vietnamese paratroopers and rangers and quickly made contact with a main-force unit of 400 Viet Cong.

A 350-man government infantry battalion moved into the flank of the battle zone 400 miles northeast of Saigon this morning and found 100 more bodies. Most of them had been killed by air attacks before the arrival of the Marines.

A Marine spokesman said the Viet Cong reacted sharply, "were very aggressive and well equipped," but added that the combined air-ground assault was too much for them.

South Vietnamese forces spotted 15 to 20 junks apparently trying to evacuate the remnants of the Viet Cong from the coastal peninsula where the fighting flared. Air attacks were summoned but there was no immediate report of results.

Vietnamese troops took blocking positions along a river parallel to the peninsula to prevent the enemy's escape by land.

Other government battalions continued operations farther north around Quang Tri City, less than 20 miles from the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone. A spokesman said one spearhead killed 48 Viet Cong and captured three machine guns, one mortar and 42 other weapons Monday.

This raised the enemy toll since the drive began eight days ago to 390 Viet Cong killed, 8 captured and 79 weapons seized, he said.

House to Vote on Viet Nam Money Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House votes today on President Johnson's $4.8-billion Viet Nam money bill, with Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., predicting approval.

Final action on the authorization measure in the Senate will come by the end of the week, says Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, and he adds that he looks for passage by a wide margin.

Mansfield and McCormack issued their predictions after a White House meeting with Johnson late Monday.

The Montana senator said: "Our soldiers in Viet Nam are turning in one of the greatest performances in our nation's history, and we are not going to let them down."

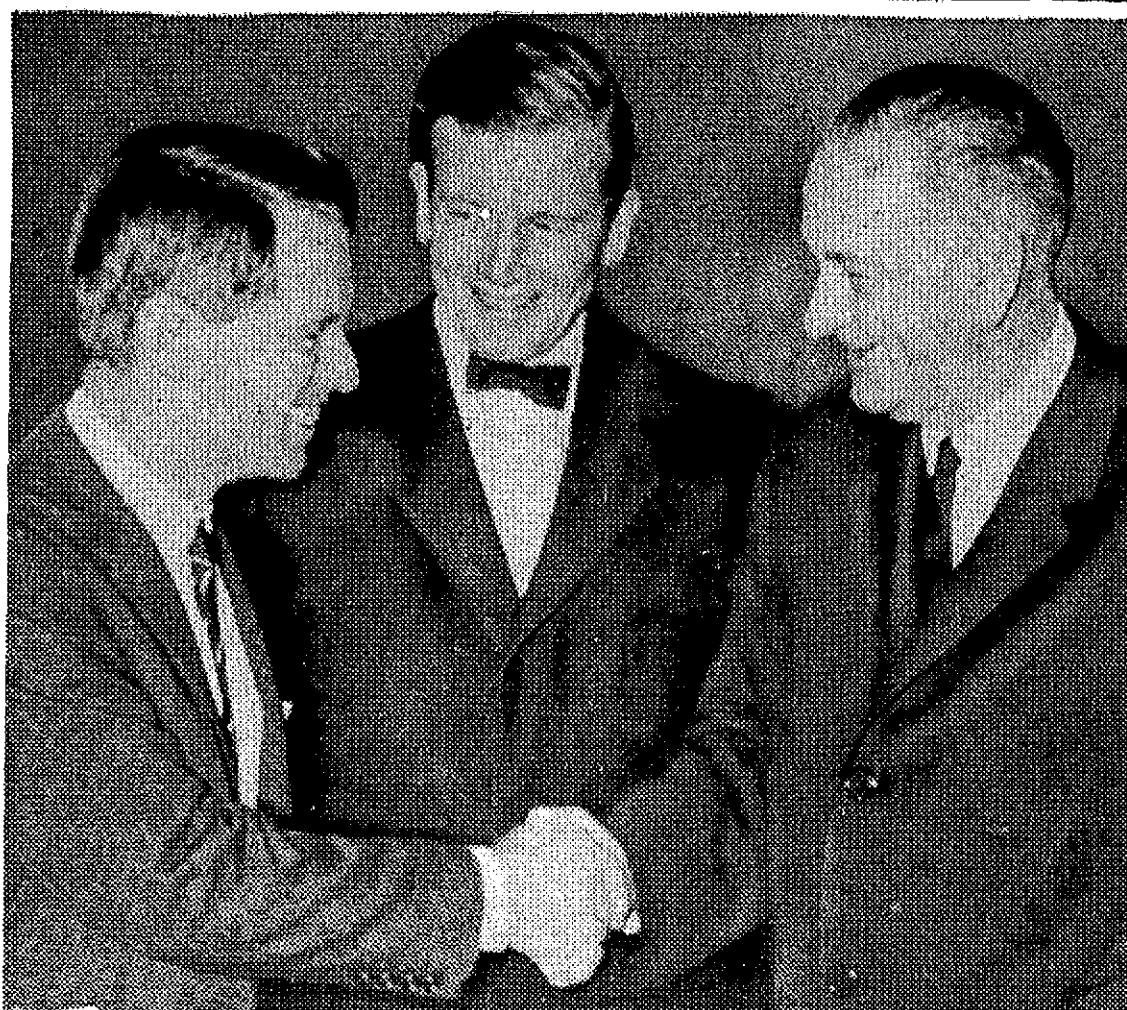

"We hope to bring the military defense supplement authorization to a vote this week," Mansfield said, "and I anticipate we will pass it by a very wide margin."

McCormack said once the money authorization bill is passed, he is confident the House Appropriations Committee will act rapidly on the actual appropriation bills for military and economic purposes in Viet Nam.

Senate passage of the bill seemed assured after a cluster of vocal opponents had decided the measure was "not a proper vehicle" for battling the administration's Southeast Asian policies.

The 17 senators who for 14 days had talked the bill to a standstill on the Senate floor met twice Monday and then announced they would not offer a controversial anti-escalation amendment to the measure, part of $12.3 billion for emergency military use sought by Johnson.

But the opposition — accused of filibustering by administration supporters — made it clear that a backdown on the money bill would not still their criticism of Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

... AND COME OUT FIGHTING?—With New York's Mayor John Lindsay taking something of a referee's stance, it was all smiles as Sen. Robert F. Kennedy greeted President Johnson upon the President's arrival in New York to accept the 1966 National Freedom Award with a speech restating the administration Viet Nam position.

Shooting in House Was 12 Years Ago

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — The sole political survivor of the five "Purple Heart" House members had to be reminded that it was exactly 12 years ago today that he and his colleagues were session.

"Celebrate what?" replied Rep. George H. Fallon, 64, Maryland Democrat, when asked if he intended to observe the anniversary of one of the weirdest episodes in congressional history.

"Gee, I had forgotten all about it," Fallon said.

Fallon was shot in the hip when four flag-waving Puerto Rican terrorists shouting, "Freedom for Puerto Rico!" leaped from their seats in the House gallery and fired several volleys of bullets at members seated on the House floor beneath the gallery. The House was debating a Mexican labor bill at the time.

Rep. Alvin M. Bentley, R-Mich., was shot in the chest and liver; Rep. Clifford Davis, D-Tenn., was wounded in the leg; Rep. Ben F. Jensen, R-Iowa, was shot in the shoulder; and Rep. Kenneth A. Roberts, D-Ala., was shot in the leg.

For several years, the five victims gathered annually for luncheon on the anniversary. The practice stopped when the vagaries of politics removed four of them from the congressional scene. Bentley was an unsuccessful candidate for the Senate. Davis, Roberts and Jensen lost in bids for re-election to the House.

What happened to the assailants?

All four were captured quickly and were convicted in a federal court here on assault charges. They were Lolita Lebron, 34; Rafael Miranda, 25; Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29; and Irving Flores Rodriguez, 28. All were from New York and were members of the Puerto Rican Nationalist party.

The woman was sentenced to from 16 to 50 years in prison. Her male accomplices received terms of from 25 to 75 years. They still are behind bars.

The wild attack set off a short-lived crusade for tighter security measures for the House, but nothing substantial came of it. Doormen now check more closely persons who have admission cards for the galleries. The cards must be obtained from members.

GOPs Call for Investigation of the Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty Republican House members called today for an immediate investigation of the draft, charging the present system is haphazard and mired in a jungle of red tape.

Administration efforts to persuade allies to supply men for Viet Nam also should come under congressional scrutiny, the group said in a statement issued prior to a late morning news conference at the Capitol.

"The search to provide manpower to fight the war is Viet Nam should be equitable and efficient," the congressmen said. "We are concerned that it is neither."

The group predicted the administration "may soon seek to increase substantially the number of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia" and said "we can no longer afford a haphazard approach."

In the statement, the congressmen also claimed:

1 — The Defense Department is "not making maximum efficient use" of present personnel. They cited a recent report they said showed 9,000 enlisted men held jobs in officers' clubs, hobby shops, bowling alleys, golf courses and commissary stores.

2 — Nearly 280,000 men classified 1A aren't available for the draft because their papers are "stalled" in the bureaucratic pipeline.

3 — "There does not appear to be a clear order of priority in which the administration is considering calling various manpower groups for service."

4 — Tests scheduled to help determine which college students should be given deferments discriminate against liberal arts students and favor those concentrating on science courses.

Three of the 30 congressmen are members of the House Armed Services Committee, which plans hearings on the "authority to induct" section of the Selective Service Act. This section expires next year.

The state members contended there is "mounting evidence of gross inefficiency" in the Selective Service System and Defense Department administration of the draft.

"Congress should examine this red tape jungle immediately," the group said.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appealed to Hanoi today to negotiate peace, and held out the promise of a massive reconstruction program that would include North Viet Nam.

Took Plenty of Spark Plugs

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—When a thief stole a 1966 automobile from the United Motor Co. here, he wanted to make sure it would run. Between 350 and 400 spark plugs were also taken.

But the car had only about two gallons of gas in it, a company official, Hildreth Crafton, said.

The earnings of the electric systems have provided many services for the City that other communities are forced to pay for with some form of taxes. $75,000 per year is furnished to the City for general operations, in addition to furnishing free service to all schools, Parks, street light, the Hope 3rd District Livestock Commission and both utilities and office space for the Chamber of Commerce.

In addition to this, during the last year the utility systems furnished the Hope High School $15,600 for the new field track, $20,000 which covered all the local funds used in the library expansion, and $18,000 for the Community building and Youth Center constructed at City Park on the North side of town. The utility systems can be pointed to as one of the most successful operations to be found anywhere. They are providing service of the very highest standard at rates lower than can be found in most other cities of Arkansas.

Woman Killed in Dermott Wreck

DERMOTT, Ark. (AP)—Two cars collided at the intersection of U.S. 65 and Arkansas 35 here Monday, killing Pearlina Block, 76, of Dermott, and injuring two persons critically.

Russia Reports a Space Satellite Lands on Venus

City Electrical Rates Lowered as of March 1

By FRED COLEMAN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today landed a satellite on Venus, the first man-made object to reach that cloud-wreathed planet, Tass announced.

The satellite was Venus 3, launched last Nov. 16. The official news agency said it carried to the planet's surface a pennant with the coat of arms of the Soviet Union.

There was no immediate claim that Venus 3 made a controlled landing, indicating that it had crashed. The Soviet Union made history's first soft landing on the moon last month.

The first Tass announcement said Venus 3 fell silent before hitting the planet in the final stage of the flight, indicating it was not sending signals from the planet.

But before that it presumably had been sending back information, because Tass said regular radio communication had been maintained.

NOSKOW (AP) — The unmanned Soviet deep-space probe Venus 3 has reached the surface of earth's cloud-draped sister planet, Tass reported today.

Venus was launched last Nov. 16, four days after the Russians fired Venus 2 along the same path. The initial announcement by the official Soviet news agency said nothing about the earlier Venus probe.

Tass said Venus 3 delivered to the planet's surface a pennant with the coat of arms of the Soviet Union.

Admits He Assassinated Malcolm X

NEW YORK (AP) — In a dramatic courtroom confession, Talmadge Hayer says he was one of the assassins of black nationalist leader Malcolm X.

He declared that his codefendants — Norman 3X Butler and Thomas 15X Johnson — "had nothing to do with it."

Hayer, 24, testified Monday that he had three accomplices, but he refused to name them. He said the killers were hired. But he refused to say who hired them or why, or how much money was involved.

Hayer, who made his confession during the defense presentation, faced continued cross-examination today.

Hayer said no one involved in the murder was connected with the Black Muslims.

D'Urso's 100th birthday party Sunday was celebrated at the Notre Dame home for the aged in New York.

GOPs Call for Investigation of the Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty Republican House members called today for an immediate investigation of the draft, charging the present system is haphazard and mired in a jungle of red tape.

Administration efforts to persuade allies to supply men for Viet Nam also should come under congressional scrutiny, the group said in a statement issued prior to a late morning news conference at the Capitol.

"The search to provide manpower to fight the war is Viet Nam should be equitable and efficient," the congressmen said. "We are concerned that it is neither."

The group predicted the administration "may soon seek to increase substantially the number of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia" and said "we can no longer afford a haphazard approach."

In the statement, the congressmen also claimed:

1 — The Defense Department is "not making maximum efficient use" of present personnel. They cited a recent report they said showed 9,000 enlisted men held jobs in officers' clubs, hobby shops, bowling alleys, golf courses and commissary stores.

2 — Nearly 280,000 men classified 1A aren't available for the draft because their papers are "stalled" in the bureaucratic pipeline.

3 — "There does not appear to be a clear order of priority in which the administration is considering calling various manpower groups for service."

4 — Tests scheduled to help determine which college students should be given deferments discriminate against liberal arts students and favor those concentrating on science courses.

Three of the 30 congressmen are members of the House Armed Services Committee, which plans hearings on the "authority to induct" section of the Selective Service Act. This section expires next year.

The statements contended there is "mounting evidence of gross inefficiency" in the Selective Service System and Defense Department administration of the draft.

"Congress should examine this red tape jungle immediately," the group said.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appealed to Hanoi today to negotiate peace, and held out the promise of a massive reconstruction program that would include North Viet Nam.

Took Plenty of Spark Plugs

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—When a thief stole a 1966 automobile from the United Motor Co. here, he wanted to make sure it would run. Between 350 and 400 spark plugs were also taken.

But the car had only about two gallons of gas in it, a company official, Hildreth Crafton, said.

The earnings of the electric systems have provided many services for the City that other communities are forced to pay for with some form of taxes.

$75,000 per year is furnished to the City for general operations, in addition to furnishing free service to all schools, Parks, street light, the Hope 3rd District Livestock Commission and both utilities and office space for the Chamber of Commerce.

In addition to this, during the last year the utility systems furnished the Hope High School $15,600 for the new field track, $20,000 which covered all the local funds used in the library expansion, and $18,000 for the Community building and Youth Center constructed at City Park on the North side of town. The utility systems can be pointed to as one of the most successful operations to be found anywhere. They are providing service of the very highest standard at rates lower than can be found in most other cities of Arkansas.

City Electrical Rates Lowered as of March 1

The Hope Water and Light Commission announce lower rates for all classes of electric service. The new rates, which will be effective with the bills dated March 1, will effect an annual saving to the users of electric service in the City of over $55,000.

The new schedule will lower residential revenue to the City by about $13,000 annually, or about 5 percent. The new commercial rate schedule will lower revenue in that classification approximately $42,500 per year, or about 8 1/2 per cent.

On residential service, after 300 KWH the rate will drop to 1 1/2 cents per KWH for the next 600 KWH, and all use in excess of KWH will be billed at 1c. It is hoped the new rates will develop heating and air conditioning loads.

The new commercial rate is rather involved, but begins at 4c per KWH where the old commercial rate began at 7 1/2c. The old commercial rate at the lowest point was 3c per KWH, while with the new rate it is possible to get a low as 7 mills. The new rates are not printed on the bills which are being sent out for this month, but will appear on the back of the bills for next month.

B. W. Edwards, Chairman, of the Water & Light Commission says the Hope Municipal Utility Systems are in excellent financial shape, and that lowering of the rates is justified after a study of both the needs of the community for the earnings provided by the systems and the obligation to furnish a high standard of electric service at rates that will compare favorably with any other city in Arkansas.

This is the second time the electric rates have been lowered during the 8 years the Water and Light Plant has been operated by this commission. Electric rates were lowered in 1958 by about 5 percent, at the time arrangements were made for the purchase of wholesale power. During this time the electric load has more than doubled and the systems have been almost completely rebuilt to provide a better standard of service.

The Hope Electric System has, during this time, paid of over $500,000 of outstanding debt and has cash reserves of more than the remaining debt against the system.

The earnings of the electric systems have provided many services for the City that other communities are forced to pay for with some form of taxes.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today landed a satellite on Venus, the first man-made object to reach that cloud-wreathed planet, Tass announced.

The satellite was Venus 3, launched last Nov. 16. The official news agency said it carried to the planet's surface a pennant with the coat of arms of the Soviet Union.

There was no immediate claim that Venus 3 made a controlled landing, indicating that it had crashed. The Soviet Union made history's first soft landing on the moon last month.

The first Tass announcement said Venus 3 fell silent before hitting the planet in the final stage of the flight, indicating it was not sending signals from the planet.

But before that it presumably had been sending back information, because Tass said regular radio communication had been maintained.

NOSKOW (AP) — The unmanned Soviet deep-space probe Venus 3 has reached the surface of earth's cloud-draped sister planet, Tass reported today.

Venus was launched last Nov. 16, four days after the Russians fired Venus 2 along the same path. The initial announcement by the official Soviet news agency said nothing about the earlier Venus probe.

Tass said Venus 3 delivered to the planet's surface a pennant with the coat of arms of the Soviet Union.

Admits He Assassinated Malcolm X

NEW YORK (AP) — In a dramatic courtroom confession, Talmadge Hayer says he was one of the assassins of black nationalist leader Malcolm X.

He declared that his codefendants — Norman 3X Butler and Thomas 15X Johnson — "had nothing to do with it."

Hayer, 24, testified Monday that he had three accomplices, but he refused to name them. He said the killers were hired. But he refused to say who hired them or why, or how much money was involved.

Hayer, who made his confession during the defense presentation, faced continued cross-examination today.

Hayer said no one involved in the murder was connected with the Black Muslims.

Did Celebrate 100th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP)—Gabriele D'Urso toasted his 100 birthday celebration guests with a glass of wine and the wish, "A cent' anno! (May you live to be 100)."

It might happen. All the guests at his table were more than 90 years old.

D'Urso's 100th birthday party Sunday was celebrated at the Notre Dame home for the aged in New York.

Among congratulatory letters and telegrams were ones from President Johnson, Pope Paul VI and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Incompetent Case Is Overturned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today reversed a Pulaski Chancery Court order revoking a trust on grounds that the persons who made it was incompetent.

The Supreme Court said that there was not adequate evidence to show that Dr. Frank C. Smith was incompetent when he executed the trust Sept. 7, 1962.

The trust was irrevocable unless extenuating circumstances could be proved.

Smith filed suit in 1964 to break the trust, alleging that he was under the influence of narcotics, did not understand the trust and was mentally incompetent when he signed it.

Amis Guthridge, his attorney; J. H. Bowen, trust officer of the Union National Bank; and Dr. Drew Agar all testified that Smith appeared to be competent in 1962.

Six of Smith's friends testified that he seemed confused at times during 1962.

In other cases, the Supreme Court:

- Upheld a $70,000 award to Mr. and Mrs. Hal Brewer for 43.37 acres of land in Crawford County taken for right-of-way for Interstate 40. The Highway Department contended the land was worth only $40,000.
- Held that Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Copeland were entitled to remission of a deed for property they bought in Morrilton from Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lilly because a house built on the property was built over a public sewer line and the size of the property was misrepresented. The ruling affirmed Conway Chancery Court.
- Reversed a Greene Chancery Court ruling that Mrs. Blanche E. Taylor was not entitled to separate maintenance payments from her husband, Hubert Taylor, because the couple had signed a property settlement. "Under the settlement, Mrs. Taylor did not receive much more than the rights of ownership already vested in her," the Supreme Court said. The Taylors were married for about 20 years.

— Reversed a Sebastian Chancery Court order dismissing a suit filed by Betsy Holt Altman against her former husband, Marvin Altman, for $10,000 she contended was due her under a 1961 separation agreement. The trial court dismissed the case on grounds that Mrs. Altman's suit was not filed until May 21, 1965, and a three-year statute of limitations barred the action.

The Supreme Court said that a five-year statute of limitations which covers written instruments governed the case and Mrs. Altman could sue.

— Affirmed a Johnson Circuit Court order establishing the right-of-way line for a utility easement across the property of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brinks along the north side of the Brinks' property. The easement was executed to the Arkansas Valley Electric Cooperative, which contended it had a right to build a utility line through the middle of the Brinks' property.

THE DOCTOR SAYS Antibiotics of No Value In Viral Pneumonia Cases

with headache, loss of appetite and general lassitude. The shaking chills of bacterial pneumonia are not seen but the victim becomes short of breath and has a cough which, in the early stages, fails to raise any sputum. The diagnosis is often uncertain until an X-ray film is made, revealing part of the lung to be consolidated.

Despite the fact that the antibiotics that have saved lives of many victims of bacterial pneumonia are of no value here, the disease usually runs a benign but prolonged course. There is no specific treatment but good nursing care will usually pull the victim through. Death occurs only in those victims classified as high risks—babies, the elderly and those weakened by a chronic debilitating disease.

Q—A woman I know had a cataract removed and rubbed her eye before it was completely healed. Her retina became detached. Was this caused by rubbing her eye?

A—Retinal detachment may be caused by a severe blow on the head or an inflammatory disease within the eye. It is most unlikely that the rubbing caused it, especially in view of the fact that in many cases retinal detachment occurs without any apparent cause.

Viral pneumonia has been given as the cause of Hedda Hopper's death. Little was heard of this disease until about 25 years ago and there is still much that we don't know about it.

Most doctors now like to group acute viral respiratory diseases under a single heading although about 70 different viruses causing these diseases have been identified and the diseases themselves range all the way from inapparent infections to mild colds to pneumonia.

One difficulty is that there is no way to recognize from the symptoms or the course of these diseases what virus is responsible. This can be determined only by complicated and expensive laboratory procedures that are not done routinely. It is, however, pretty well-established that these viruses are transmitted chiefly through the air in droplets from a cough or sneeze or in dust.

Exposure to inclement weather will not provoke an attack. In fact, you are much more likely to get the disease in a crowded bus or an office, store or theater.

Viral pneumonia, unlike bacterial pneumonia, is a slow starter. The victim may complain of a common cold for several days then develop a fever of 102 or 103 degrees

2 Astronauts Killed in Plane Crash

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Elliot See Jr., was quiet and introspective, humble about his part in America's space program but given to flashes of droll humor. Air Force Maj. Charles A. Bassett II was a devoted family man who lavished attention on his Model A Ford whenever his rigorous schedule permitted.

As astronauts their training had been focused toward a single flight—the two-or three-day space mission of Gemini 9, tentatively scheduled for May.

See, 38, a civilian, and Bassett, 34, were flying from Houston into St. Louis Monday for more training when their T38 jet plane glanced off a McDonnell Aircraft Corp. building near the airport and fell to earth in flames. See and Bassett died in the crash.

Ironically, the capsule they were to ride into space was inside the building — less than 500 feet from their bodies. McDonnell builds the spacecraft.

In another T38, right behind See and Bassett, was the Gemini 9 backup crew, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, who landed safely. They did not see the crash.

This lady is really nice and I don't want to lose her but how can I tell her I'm — Underpaid?

Dear Underpaid: If you want to be business-like about your odd-job business, then make up a list of jobs, the per-hour pay for each and give it to all your customers. Otherwise you'll be in trouble when they get together and compare prices. Seems to me $2.50 an hour, even for snow shoveling, is a little high for teen labor, and $1.00 is somewhat low — if you're a fast and conscientious worker. How about 2.00 and $1.25? (Memo from H. to H.: I'll get repercussions on this one. In some areas, teens are still working for 50 cents an hour.)

Dear Helen: I'm glad to see you don't mind slim line pants on a boy. My grandmother thinks pegged pants are an "invention of the Devil," and my mother gets talked down if she says anything good about them. So she "sneak-pegs" my pants and pretends they shrank. Then my grandmother goes out and buys me a pair "that fits," and here we go again. What would YOU do? — Lon

Dear Lon: I'd peg and tell. . . but remember now — not to the point where it looks like you are wearing your skin on the outside. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble let Helen Help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Terrell-Clay Fight Ruling Expected

By JOE MOOSHIK
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Illinois Atty. Gen. William G. Clark was to deliver an opinion today on a new license sought for the controversial Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight title fight.

Clark, whose legal diggings Friday seemed to have kayaked the possibility of holding the March 29 fight in Illinois, had the entire matter tossed into his lap Monday by the Illinois Athletic Commission.

If the fight is booted out of Chicago, Louisville loomed as the possible site.

Louisville is being given "very strong consideration," said attorney Arthur Grafton, spokesman for Clay's Louisville sponsoring group.

Bob Evans, the Kentucky boxing commissioner, said he has not yet received a request to license the Clay-Terrell bout in Louisville and declined to speculate on a decision.

Clark had ruled that the fight would be illegal because the promoters' corporation was made up of only two men — Irv Schoenwald and Ben Bentley — instead of the 50 persons required by the state code.

At Monday's hearing, Schoenwald appeared before the commission and requested a new license as an individual promoter. The commission unanimously approved the move and said the application would be submitted to Clark for a ruling which was expected today.

Temporarily obscured in the legal maneuvering was the cause of the entire situation which stemmed from Clay's remarks — called "disgusting" and "unpatriotic" by Gov. Otto Kerner — following his reclassification from 1-Y to 1-A and his subsequent refusal to offer a suitable apology to the commission at Friday's hearing.

Clay did not appear at Monday's hearing, but Terrell was on hand complaining that his training program was being upset.

Immediately following Schoenwald's request for a new license, Commission Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioners Joe Robichaux and Lou Radzienda referred all questions concerning the status of the fight to the attorney general.

The commission has been withstanding political pressure throughout the state to cancel the bout.

Gov. Kerner requested last Friday's hearing in order to get an apology for Clay's remarks. Mayor Richard J. Daley opposes having the fight in Chicago.

Main Bout Inc., which includes members of Clay's Black Muslim religion and has the closed-circuit television rights for the fight, is reported ready to shift elsewhere should the fight be kicked out of Illinois.

FORM CHARTS

Baltimore Orioles

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PITCHING—Orioles have Steve Barber (15-10), Dave McNally (11-6), two of the best southpaws in AL. Wally Bunker, rookie of the year in 1964, slipped to 10-8 last season, but has established himself. Fourth starter will probably be John Miller. He did a good job (6-4) after recall from minors. Jim Palmer (5-4) is another possibility. As usual, Baltimore is loaded with talented rookies like Frank Bertina, Ed Barnowski, Ed Watts and Dave Leonhard. Watts had two no-hitters in minors last year. There aren't many better bullpen crews than Stu Miller, Dick Hall, Miller was 14-7, Hall 11-8 last year. RATING—B.

INFIELD—Boog Powell, Brooks Robinson, two of the game's most powerful hitters will be at first, third. Steady Jerry Adair is at second. Luis Aparicio at short. Adair is a great fielder. RATING—A.

OUTFIELD—Orioles gave up Milt Pappas to get Frank Robinson. Robby in left, adds even more power to an already powerful lineup. Paul Blair, improved after a mid-season stint in the minors, will be in center. Rookie of the year, Curt Blefary, in right. RATING—B.

CATCHING—Baltimore hopes the investment on Andy Etcheberry begins to pay this season. If not, Charley Lau and Dick Brown are available. Lau is the better hitter. Brown rates higher defensively. RATING—B.

BENCH—Infielder Bob Johnson is an excellent pinch-hitter. Outfielder Russ Snyder hit .270 last season. He could start. Key acquisition during off-season was Woody Held from Senators. He plays both infield, outfield and can hit. Carl Warwick, former National Leaguer, is another good utility man. RATING—A.

SUMMARY—The offense with Blefary, the two Robinsons, Powell is tremendous. Bench is another strong point. So is the double play combo. Pitching is only worry, but could be solved if one of the rookies makes it. Nevertheless... Prediction—1st.

Texas Western in 2nd Behind Kentucky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Texas Western held second place today, its highest ranking in The Associated Press major-college basketball poll. But the unbeaten Miners have a long way to go to catch Kentucky, the nation's only other undefeated team.

Texas Western trails the Wildcats by 66 points in the latest vote by 40 regional experts based on games through last Saturday. Each has two games remaining on the regular-season schedule, the Miners against New Mexico State Wednesday and Seattle Saturday and Kentucky against Tennessee Saturday and Tulane next Monday.

Kentucky collected 38 first-place votes and 396 points in the most recent balloting. Texas Western advanced one notch with 330 points while Duke slipped one place to third with 311 points.

The Wildcats lifted their record to 23-0 last week by defeating Mississippi and Tennessee. Texas Western whipped West Texas and Colorado State for a 22-0 mark. Duke suffered its third loss of the campaign, 99-98 to Wake Forest in overtime.

Michigan's Wolverines were replaced in the rankings by Cincinnati. 20-5. Michigan relinquished 10th place after suffering its sixth loss of the season, 91-82 to Iowa.

The Top Ten, won-lost records through games of Saturday, Feb. 26, and total points:

1. Kentucky 23-0	396
2. Texas Western 22-0	330

'You Felt Like Hell When You Had to Leave'

NEW YORK (NEA)
When Frank Gifford, John Unitas, Willie Davis and Sam Huff walked into Mac B headquarters in Saigon, the sergeant handed each of them two identification cards. On the cards was written simply, "Non-Combatant."

"That's in case," cautioned the NCO, "you get caught by the Viet Cong. Give them one, keep one."

"But, man," said Willie, "those VCs can't read."

The four pro football emissaries to the war in Viet Nam arrived right in the middle of Chinese New Year's.

"We were a little nervous anyhow," recalled Gifford, "not knowing what to expect, and they were blowing up these firecrackers all over the place. Made us jumpy."

A couple of days later, they were up in Da Nang for the night, sleeping at an Air Force base. The firecrackers were still popping, and Sam Huff slept like a kitten, used to the harmless pops. Or so he thought. Next morning at breakfast, he found out the VC had mortared the base and killed a couple of guys.

For the 12 days he was in Viet Nam, acting as emcee of the football show the boys put on.

At Ban Me Thuot, the gang stayed at Madame Nhu's old hunting lodge. It came up raining monsoons when they were supposed to "copter to a forward outpost. The guys resumed kidding Gifford about "Darby's Rangers," a Hollywood epic he once made.

"Right now," shrugged Gifford, "we could use that Marine who trained us for the movie."

Capt. Tom Crowder, who once played football against Johnny Unitas at Louisville, was loose. He suggested they fly through the sheets of rain anyhow, at treetop level. When they landed at the jungle camp 35 minutes away, a muddled Marine captain walked up to Gifford.

"Guess you don't remember me?" he said.

"I sure do," Frank answered. It was Ola Mize, a Medal of Honor winner in the Korean war, his instructor for "Darby's Rangers."

The footballers, going from 6 a.m. to midnight, chewing malaria pills, dropped in on such places as Kuang Ngai, where there are only 150 Americans. And then because the soldiers asked for them, Gifford and Unitas went forward to a couple of outposts, where there might be three or four or five Americans.

"It was like 'All Quiet on the Western Front,'" said Frank. "Except they sat surrounded by a big moat, fortified by sharpened bamboo sticks."

They flew to Hoa An in a whirlybird with machine guns on each side of them, and the plane that later came to get them out had two holes in the fuselage from the trip over.

On his own, Gifford bummed a ride in an L-19, a light observation plane, with Bob Jordan. He wanted to see Hue (pronounced H-way), the cultural center of Viet Nam, where they're building a university.

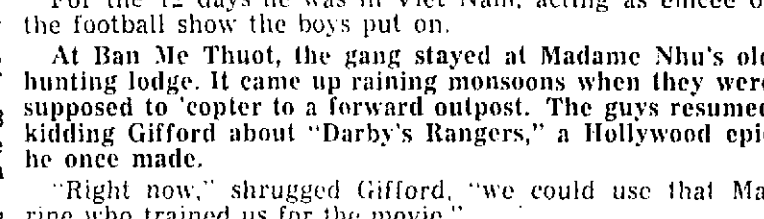

The main worry of Gifford and the other players was how they would be received what they could contribute. And did they contribute?

"I know we did," said Gifford. "We all agreed on one thing. The guys themselves were unbelievable in their attitude. 'When you get back,' they said, 'pull a beard for us.'"

It was also unbelievable for the quartet, from playing volleyball at a military adviser camp, with Viet Cong lurking in the bush, to a night on the town in Saigon with Capt. Pete Dawkins, the idol of all Viet Nam.

And there was Gifford's ultimate reaction.

"You felt like hell when you had to leave."

Braves Case Going Back to Courtroom

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wisconsin's anti-trust suit against baseball was expected to move back into the courtroom today after an all-day, ex-aud-num-bering session provided the first indications of the war of words that will be waged before a decision ultimately is reached.

The entire courtroom proceedings at the opening session Monday lasted about 10 minutes before Circuit Court Judge Elmer W. Roller brought the combined battery of 17 legal experts into his chambers to be behind the scenes legal skirmishing involved in marking exhibits.

Judge Roller kept the attorneys new to the state and court at the exhibit marking in an evening session. The hearing is proceeding back to the courtroom today for opening statements.

Willard S. Stafford, special counsel for the state, was scheduled to make the opening statements for the prosecution, which will contend that the National League and its 10 members violated Wisconsin antitrust laws by moving the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta.

The important case, which likely will test the entire structure of baseball and probe its special antitrust status, began minutes after 9 a.m. before a packed courtroom holding about 150 onlookers, the 17 attorneys and a jury box filled with reporters.

The only official move was an attempt by baseball's counsel to amend its answers to the state's complaint by getting before the court rulings by Georgia and Texas judges. Those judges, respectively, ordered the Braves and the league to play the 1966 season in Atlanta.

The importance of the actual court trial stems from two factors — the effect it will have on the Braves' scheduled opening date in Atlanta April 12 and the far-reaching impact it may have on baseball's antitrust status. Judge Roller has instructed the National League to prepare to play in Milwaukee if so ordered by the court.

SMU Gains a Half Game Over Aggies

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago Loyola rang the bell in its journey tune-up. Penn State barely beat the buzzer.

Loyola, the nation's fourth-ranked basketball power, crushed Bowling Green 109-70 Monday night in its regular-season finale as sophomore Corky Bell pumped in 31 points. The victory sent the Ramblers into the NCAA post-season tournament with a sparkling 22-2 record.

Penn State, a National Invitation Tournament nominee, edged NCAA-bound Syracuse 80-79 on Jeff Persson's jump shot at the final buzzer and extended a home-court winning streak to 27 games. The Nittany Lions, 18-4, have one game remaining before they head for the NIT in New York.

Billy Smith hacked Bell with 20 points and three other starters hit double figures as Loyola prepped for its date with Western Kentucky, also 22-2, next Monday night in the NCAA Mid-East regionals. Western Kentucky wound up its regular schedule by thumping Middle Tennessee 81-47.

Persson's winning shot capped a second-half rally by the Nittany Lions, who trailed by 11 points at half-time and appeared headed for their first home loss in three seasons. Carver Clinton led the comeback and finished with 29 points as Penn State avenged an earlier loss to Syracuse. George Hicker scored 27 and Dave Bing 20 for the Orangemen, now 19-5.

No. 5 Vanderbilt, only other nationally ranked team in action, whipped Tulane 97-72 behind Clyde Lee's 31 points. Lee connected on 11 of 18 shots from the floor, canned nine of 10 free throws and grabbed 21 rebounds, leading the Commodores to their 22nd victory in 25 starts.

Michigan's Cazzie Russell also hit for 31 points as the Wolverines, who dropped out of the Top Ten after last week's loss at Iowa, trounced the Hawkeyes 103-88 in the rematch at Ann Arbor and moved closer to the Big Ten Conference crown.

Michigan, 17-5 overall, has a one-game lead over Michigan State, which buried Ohio State 98-79. The Wolverines and Spartans each have two games left, including a showdown at East Lansing next Monday night.

Oregon State, heir apparent to UCLA in the Pacific Athletic Conference, nailed at least a tie for the title by holding off Washington 54-43 on the clutch shooting of Scott Eaton.

Eaton scored seven of his 14 points down the stretch as the Beavers moved within one victory of eliminating the defending NCAA kings from the league race.

Utah and Boston College, two tournament-bound clubs rocked by recent injuries to key players, held off Seattle and Northeastern, respectively.

The Utes, who clinched a share of the Western Athletic Conference championship by beating New Mexico last weekend but lost defensive ace George Fisher with a broken leg in the process, rode Jerry Chambers' 47-point spree to a 116-103 victory over the Chiefs.

Boston College, already named to the NIT field, shook off the loss of high-scoring John Austin and topped Northeastern 85-78 in the final of the Beantop Turney at Boston as soph Steve Adelman drilled in 35 points. Austin has a broken bone in his left foot and is through for the season.

Charles Beasley scored 27 points, leading Southern Methodist past Texas Christian 100-96.

Anybody Can Buy a Gun

By TOM NOLAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
(First in a series.)

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—On Nov. 22, 1963, President John Kennedy was killed by a bullet fired from a mail-order rifle purchased by a mentally deranged man.

Last February the wife of a Falls Church, Va., school principal shot her four children to death before killing herself with a pistol. The woman, who had spent six months in two mental institutions the year before, bought the pistol that morning at a department store.

In Baltimore—where a written statement from the police commissioner and a 15-day waiting period are necessary before a pistol can be purchased—a robber in mid-1964 took a taxi to suburban Essex where he bought a pistol. Four months later, a bullet from the gun killed a Baltimore policeman.

A San Mateo, Calif., electronics worker bought a rifle at a shopping center last October. Two hours later, he used the weapon to kill his girl friend and himself.

These senseless tragedies occurred in part because anybody in the United States can buy a gun. There are no restrictions on the sale of rifles and shotguns anywhere. Only seven states require a permit to purchase a handgun.

Despite the emotional furies aroused by the assassination of President Kennedy, despite a national poll which showed eight out of 10 Americans favored stiffer firearms-registration requirements, despite a strong plea for a tough gun-control measure by President Johnson, Congress has twice failed to do anything about the easy availability of guns.

This is not due to a lack of opportunity. Altogether there have been 34 firearms-control measures introduced in the last 26 months.

The primary reason for this foot-dragging is the strong reaction of a small, but vocal, segment of the public hunters, gun collectors, firearms dealers and "patriotic" organizations.

Opponents to severe federal firearms legislation point out that any criminal who seeks weapons and ammunition can always find them. Even the most stringent law would not prevent this.

At the same time, they say, any law which tightens the availability of firearms would seriously curtail activities of dedicated hunters and marksmen who, after all, should have the right to pursue their particular hobby.

Spearhead of the gun lobby, one of the most powerful in Washington, is the National Rifle Association, an organization which, because of loopholes in the federal lobbying act, is not required to register as a lobby.

From a small group of New York National Guard officers, the NRA has grown in 94 years to a national organization with more than 700,000 members. It can mobilize roughly another half-million supporters in some 12,000 NRA-affiliated gun clubs and groups.

Focal point of the NRA effort over the past two years is the President's gun bill, introduced by Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn.

Thanks mainly to NRA tactics, this "hard line" measure

The NRA-Backed Gun Bill: What Kind of Job Will It Do?

It shouldn't be said that the National Rifle Assn. is against any form of gun control legislation.

Its leadership freely admits the need for a law and is officially backing a three-part proposal sponsored by Rep. Robert Casey, D-Tex. The proposal has been called "the toughest gun bill in Congress."

And, indeed, it is tough.

Basically, the bill would make it a federal offense to use a gun in specified criminal acts, ranging from robbery and assault to kidnapping and rape. First-time offenders would face a mandatory 10-year prison term; repeaters, a mandatory 25 years.

Under the Casey bill, roughly 100,000 gun crimes handled last year by state and local police would require investigation and prosecution by federal law enforcement officers.

The bill reflects the NRA belief that the only justifiable firearms laws are those providing stronger penalties for the criminal use of guns and that preventive measures, such as a registration requirement, would neither stop criminals from getting guns nor reduce crime.

Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., who has his own bill in the congressional hopper, is not in favor of the NRA-backed bill, to put it mildly.

"I wonder," he muses, "whether the NRA, in supporting legislation it knows stands little chance of becoming law, is just supporting a gimmick to see that no new legislation is passed."

The senator continues: "Such a law, if strictly enforced and if upheld by the courts, would present staggering administrative problems."

A conservative guess is that the existing federal enforcement staff would have to be tripled in size to cope with the Casey bill requirements. If only a third of last year's offenders were convicted under the bill, the existing federal prison system capacity would have to be expanded by 150 per cent.

The second NRA proposal would make it a federal offense for a licensed dealer or manufacturer to ship a gun in contravention of a state law.

But only seven states now require a permit to purchase a pistol or revolver. There are no restrictions on the sales of rifles and shotguns. And the NRA proposal apparently gives a shipper of guns an easy out, since no conviction could be obtained if he made a "reasonable effort" to learn if a state law is being violated.

Such "reasonable effort" is now construed as simply requiring a signed statement by the purchaser to the effect that he is under no legal disability which would prohibit shipment.

The third NRA proposal would provide federal control of such military ordnance as bazookas, grenades, cannons and rockets. These weapons would be subject to a $200 transfer tax and registration with the Treasury Department which enforces federal gun laws.

This proposal looks fine on the surface, but—under NRA specifications—such weapons as the .50-caliber machine gun and six antitank guns currently advertised in mail-order catalogs would be excluded, Senator Dodd says.

Hunting, target and trap shooting are big business in the United States today. Their devotees spend roughly $250 million a year on guns, ammunition and accessories. The side effects probably produce more than a billion dollars annually for the makers of cars, boats, fuel and clothes.

It is estimated that there are about 54 million guns of various kinds in private possession in the country today. Each year this number is increased by domestic manufacture and swollen by a flood of firearms from abroad, mostly the discarded military models of foreign governments imported to be sold cheaply by mail-order merchants.

Originally formed to promote proficiency in rifle shooting, the NRA over the years has become the chief defender of the citizen's right to "keep and bear arms."

This crusade is based on what Dodd calls an out-of-context reading of the second amendment to the Constitution—which constitutional experts say was intended to safeguard only the people's collective right to bear arms as members of a militia.

Despite modern armed forces, a National Guard and local police, the NRA argues that an armed citizenry is necessary to defend the country against enemies both within and without.

The NRA stands squarely on the premise that the ownership of firearms must not be denied Americans of good repute. To this end, the organization says it carefully screens its membership applicants.

Each must certify that he is over 18, has never been convicted of a crime of violence and is not a member of any organization which seeks to overthrow the government. Each applicant must also be endorsed by an NRA member, a public official or a military officer of the United States.

This reporter joined the NRA by filling out an application he clipped from a barber-shop magazine and enclosing a check for $5. Presumably he was carefully screened.

The endorsement? The reporter printed the name William Miller, one common enough to fit one of the NRA specifications.

And from its new $3-million building on Rhode Island Avenue, the National Rifle Assn. wages an intensive and effective battle to prevent "unreasonable restrictive" firearms-control laws. In 1963, NRA's Legislative and Public Affairs Division spent nearly $145,000 to produce, among other things, 42 special legislative bulletins urging members to oppose various gun bills.

Perhaps the primary difference between the tactics of the AMA lobby, Harry Maginnis and the NRA is that the NRA is not registered as a lobby.

The reason for this is that NRA claims its function is not to influence legislation, but merely to "inform" or "educate" its members and the public.

This is one of the ways in which NRA "educates" its members on the evils of the President's gun bill last April 9.

If you transported your rifle or shotgun to another state for a lawful purpose, such as hunting, you would have to comply with such burdensome restrictions and red tape as might be required.

To hunter Bill Willard of Grangeville, Idaho, this spelled the end of his beloved mountain-goat-hunting forays to Wyoming. He promptly fired off protests to his congressman and senators and to Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., sponsor of the President's bill.

Tens of thousands of other hunters did the same.

has aroused the bitterest opposition since Franklin Roosevelt tried to pack the Supreme Court. Dodd's bill would:

- Ban all mail-order gun sales.
- Impose tougher record-keeping requirements on retail dealers to aid local police in keeping track of gun sales.
- Raise license fees.
- Ban the import of foreign military surplus weapons.

The NRA interprets these provisions as prohibiting "the interstate movement of all firearms to all persons other than federally licensed manufacturers and dealers."

Thousands of NRA members have interpreted this statement as saying that the bill would bar a Connecticut duck hunter from buying a shotgun in Colorado. This is misconception, Dodd says.

With statements such as the above, the NRA caused a virtual inundation of Congress by letter and wire.

Dodd says this campaign is the primary reason the bill has been stalled in his own Judiciary subcommittee for two years. He was unable to round up a quorum to act on the

The prospective buyer of a mail-order handgun must complete the statement above. Statement is not necessary when ordering rifles or larger weapons.

As Dodd pointed out to NRA Executive Vice President Franklin Orth in hearings last year, there are no restrictions in the President's measure pertaining to anyone other than criminals or fugitives who transport rifles or shotguns across a state line.

The deluge of letters resulting from NRA bulletins played an important part in Congress' failure to act on any firearms-control bill last session.

Though the organization vigorously denies it is a lobby, an NRA folder urges readers to "watch for firearms-control proposals that may appear in Congress or your state legislature, in your community, city or town" and to oppose them "by letter, telegram, or telephone call or by personal appearance at open hearings."

The 1963 NRA Operating Report states that: "During 1963, 350 bills of concern to gun owners were introduced in state legislatures and 32 in the U.S. Congress. . . 42 legislative bulletins were mailed to 320,000 members and clubs in 50 states. NRA members reacted promptly, firmly and in force. As a result, none of the legislation deemed severe was enacted."

One NRA bulletin said, "Anyone engaged in the manufacture of a munition would be required to have a $1,000 manufacturer's license."

In fact, the bill provides only a $500 license fee. Shotgun ammunition is excluded altogether.

The NRA also implies that the bill introduced by Dodd—at President Johnson's request—is more "far-reaching and restrictive" than the President intended.

"The NRA knows this isn't true," Dodd asserts. "It knows I have the complete backing of the administration on this bill. Yet it has persisted in confusing the issues and disrupting the truth."

Lobby or not, the NRA is probably the only private pressure group to receive a direct subsidy from the U.S.

measure after hearings were completed last July. This year, Dodd vows, it will be different.

"I'm going to get a vote at long last," he says, "if I have to use every parliamentary trick in the book, and several that aren't."

Though the NRA is flatly opposed to the President's bill, it likes several others which have been introduced—including one which Dodd put in before the assassination of President Kennedy.

Says NRA Executive Vice President Franklin Orth: "Obviously there are some abuses that we all agree need correcting."

Adds the NRA Executive Committee: "There can be good, forward-looking, federal legislation. It is not necessary to accept unreasonable restrictions."

But the NRA's idea of acceptable legislation does not block the easy availability of guns—the basic reason for having a firearms-control law.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

Refunds should be back in vogue again this year.

While filing an income tax return is never an event looked forward to with great expectancy, this year's task should not be the nightmare experience shared by so many a year ago.

The Revenue Act of 1964 cut the tax rate in two stages. Two-thirds of the cut was effective in 1964; the other third applies to income received in 1965.

And for all of 1965 the withholding tax tables were in complete harmony with the tax rates. This was not true in 1964 when the withholding tax cut was too deep to match the tax rate reduction. Consequently, many who had been accustomed to a refund had to make a payment in April 1965 and others found the tax due to be far greater than they had anticipated.

A reduction in the rates—in the lowest bracket the rate has been trimmed from 16 per cent to 14 per cent (a 12 1/2 per cent cut)—is just one of the many changes affecting 1965 earnings.

Persons who have stock investments will find new rules for the accounting of their dividends. The first $100 in dividends is excludable from income. If a husband and wife are filing a joint return and each has dividend income or they own stock jointly it is possible for them to receive $200 in tax-free dividends.

After this initial reduction the dividends are fully taxable. Formerly there had been a dividend credit. For example, prior to 1964, of $500 in dividends received, $100 was excluded on a joint return. The balance of $400 received a 4 per cent tax credit of $16. This amount was subtracted from the total income tax due figure. A year ago this credit was reduced to 2 per cent. In 1965 it disappeared completely. This means we still have the exclusion but no longer the percentage credit.

Retired persons will find new rules and reduced rates in computing their retirement income credit.

Understanding the changes, interpretations and court rulings which affect individual income tax returns will be helpful in filing a correct return.

Most of the situations confronting the average wage earner and salaried employee will be explained in the series of which this article is the first. There will be suggestions for the salesman or professional man who uses his car in his work and who has travel and entertainment expenses.

The small investor who receives dividends and who may have sold some of his holdings will be advised on his accounting problems. So, too, will the landlord who has to account for rents collected and is unsure of what deductions he may claim against gross rents.

Examples, filled-in schedules and forms will pass on helpful tax-saving tips and suggestions.

Detailed attention will be given to the special problems of senior citizens and retired persons.

Last year nearly three million taxpayers made mistakes on their returns which were caught by Internal Revenue's electronic computers.

There is no way of knowing how many persons overpaid their taxes because they failed to take advantage of tax-saving opportunities or were unaware of all their proper deductions.

We will try to reduce both types of errors by giving completed examples to follow and the information to help you determine your own detailed deductions. Remember, tax savings are the most profitable form of savings available today. It represents net after taxes. It is worth far more than the identical sum of money which is still to be taxed.

Clubs Rub Out Potential Loser

By JACOB & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

North has quite a problem at his second bid. With 11 high-card points he only has a minimum two-club response but his points include two aces and the queen of his partner's suit. He really should bid again and three spades is better than two no-trump because he has no stopper in diamonds.

South carries on to four spades. West opens the king of diamonds and continues with the ace and eight. South ruffs the third diamond and studies the hand. He has already lost two tricks and has a sure club loser. There is also a potential heart loser, although South does have a finesse in that suit if he needs it.

He notes that dummy holds five clubs and sees that he has a chance to set up dummy's fifth club for a heart discard. South leads a club. West plays low and South sticks in dummy's jack just in case West holds both the king and queen.

East wins and returns a trump. South wins with the ace, leads a club to dummy's ace and ruffs a club high. It does not matter to him that East shows out on that third club if trumps break 3-2.

He leads a trump to dummy's queen. Both opponents follow and all South's worries are over.

He ruffs another club with his next to last trump, draws West's last trump with his own last trump and makes the last three tricks with the king and ace of hearts and the 13th club.

Ones Against Negotiation in Control

By SPENCER DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist North Viet Nam evidently has had its own closed-circuit version of the U.S. policy debate on the course of the Vietnamese war. The hardliners in Hanoi who refuse negotiations appear firmly in control.

Expert analysts say they cannot tell if there is any real split within the government of 76-year-old President Ho Chi Minh that goes beyond immediate tactics.

But there is no doubt of the stern public rebuke administered earlier this month by party theoretician Le Duc Tho to what he called "a small number of comrades who have developed erroneous thoughts and views."

"They entertain subjectivism and pacifism," complained Tho. "They display pessimism and fail to realize clearly the deceptive peace negotiation plot of the enemy."

While striking out at the doubters and waverers, Le Duc Tho mentioned no names. Experts believe there are at least three or four in the top ranks of Hanoi's hierarchy and assume that there may be 30 or 40 more scattered through the second echelon of leaders.

It is known here that Alexander Shelepin, the secretary of the powerful Soviet Central Committee, left Hanoi in mid-January after a visit without feeling there was any room for the moderates.

It is also known here that at no time during or since the 37-day pause in U.S. bombing of North Vietnamese targets has the North Vietnamese leadership shown any difference in approach that might encourage negotiations.

Inside Ho's politburo, the pro-Chinese element is believed led by Truong Chinh, 58. He is the militant chief ideologist of the Communist party.

He played a leading role in establishing the revolutionary government and was a member of the North Vietnamese delegation to the 1954 Geneva conference. Ten years ago he fell into disgrace for his handling of a land reform program but reappeared after a short eclipse of two years.

Ranking second to Ho in the party hierarchy is Le Duan, 58, the first secretary of the central committee. He is said to be pro-Soviet rather than pro-Chinese. Nevertheless he is one of the driving forces behind the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

Le Duan and Le Duc Tho have been bitter rivals for more than a decade. They headed competing Communist groups in South Viet Nam during the war that preceded the 1954 Geneva agreement.

Also counted in the pro-Soviet team is Prime Minister Van Dong, 58. He headed North Viet Nam's delegations to the Geneva conferences in 1954 and 1962. He has been premier and foreign minister.

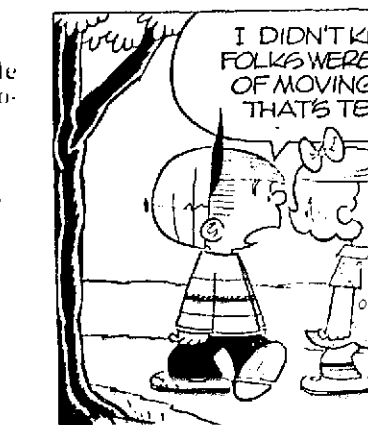

Le Duc Tho's criticism of foreign policy apparently was aimed at Dong.

Among the generals, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, who defeated the French in the 1954 battle of Dien Bien Phu, is a hardliner who is believed to stand nearer to Moscow than Peking.

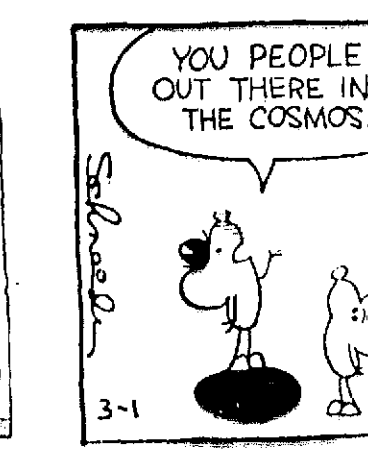

The top general among the pro-Chinese group is Gen. Nguyen Chi Thanh, considered a close collaborator with Truong Chinh. He has made frequent trips to both Moscow and Peking in his efforts to steer a middle course, knowing his regime depends on continued aid from both Communist giants.

James Marlow, who usually writes this column, is ill.

THE BORN LOSER

matter fact

Pima Indians are a tribe which lives along the Gila and Salt rivers in southern Arizona. In prehistoric times they developed a system of irrigation of which there is still evidence. Friendly to the whites, they long withstood the Apache, fought back the hostile Yuman tribes and sheltered those that took refuge with them. They numbered about 6,750 in 1958.
